TRUE, VERY TRUE.

Co-operative Marketing Means Prosperity.

Co-operative Marketing Means Bank Deposits.

Co-operative Marketing Helps Land Values.

Co-operative Marketing Increases Business.

Co-operative Marketing Produces Profits.

Co-operative Marketing Eliminates Waste.

Co-operative marketing in its simplest, safest and most inexpensive sense means, producers combine to produce; combine to conserve; combine to save; combine to prepare for market.

Any single community of farmers that will do so, can more than double profits.

By so doing overhead expense can be abolished; agents commissions can be saved; over supplied markets can be avoided and top prices can be secured for products.—Alabama Traveler.

DOUBLING UP.

Mrs. Homer McMann, of Bellum West Virginia, age 37 married 19 years, gave birth to her 20th child when she was presented with quadruplets a few days ago. She is the mother of three sets of twins and ten singles previous to the birth of her last four children.

Mrs. McMann was one of twins and on the night of her birth, twin calves and twin colts were born on her father's farm. Only a few weeks before her four children were born, Mrs. McMann's twin brother died.

Neighbors shun the McMann home because superstition is abroad that there is an influence toward pairs in the premises. The proud father is busy trying to find names for the new arrivals.

During his administration, Grover Cleveland vetoed 313 bills. In his first administration 301 bills and in his second 42. Of this number Congress passed but one bill over his veto.

COVINGTON FARMER

LOSES LIFE IN FIRE

THAT DESTROYS HOME

—O—

Andalusia, Ala., March 22—

Charred beyond recognition, the body of Moses Dillard, 55 years old, prominent Covington county farmer and former member of the board of revenue, was recovered from the ruins of his home which was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin in the Pine Chapel community, Covington county, tonight.

Investigations will probably be made tomorrow into the circumstances surrounding the death of Dillard. The prevailing belief, seems to be, however, that he was trapped in the burning building when he attempted to save some of the belongings. Mrs. Dillard, on the suggestions of her husband went to the home of nearby neighbors to summon help when the fire was discovered. When she and others returned to the house the husband was missing.

Mr. and Mrs. Dillard, who lived alone, were awakened by a noise resembling an explosion. They leaped from bed to find that the kitchen had already collapsed and the flames were spreading to other rooms of the home.

It was then that Mrs. Dillard hurried to the home of neighbors for assistance.

There were rumors that the fire might have been of incendiary origin. However, the Dillards had no enemies, so far as was known, and no developments had resulted tonight to corroborate such a theory. No trace could be found of suspicious persons having been about the house. Mr. Dillard's body was so badly charred that it was impossible to determine whether he had been struck by an instrument of any description or otherwise injured.

The body was found in the doorway leading from his bedroom. Mr. Dillard, according to reports, usually kept a considerable amount of money in the house and if incendiaries figured in the fire and death of Dillard, it is suspected that robbery was probably the motive. Doubt was expressed, however, that Dillard was killed or injured before entering the burning dwelling, inasmuch as there was no evidence of prowlers or other suspicious persons about the premises.

The coroner will probably conduct an inquest tomorrow and there was talk that bloodhounds might be rushed to the scene of the fire.

The fire apparently started about 9:30 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Dillard were asleep and did not awake until they were shocked by the heavy explosion.

Mr. Dillard is survived by his widow and three brothers, Noah Dillard, of Ozark; H. M. and H. A. Dillard, both of Covington county, and two sisters, of Ozark.

The Pine Chapel community is situated about seven miles from Andalusia and six miles west of Opp.

From Lee School

Our school closed Friday, March 23, after one of the most successful sessions we ever had. It was taught by Misses Verna Mae Helms and Eunice Davidson. They are among the best teachers in the county.

We believe that our teachers have done everything in their power for us. We truly thank them for their time spent in teaching us. They have been kind to all, and each pupil and the parents of the community love them dearly.

We wish to thank Superintendent Bowden for everything he has done for us, especially for the good teachers he secured for us, also Miss Bloodworth for every visit she has made to our school, for we feel we have profited by every one of her visits.

It grieves us to part with Miss Helms and Miss Davidson, but we hope they will come back and teach for us again. I know that every pupil and all the patrons would be glad to have them back.

We have been busy for the last week of school reviewing and standing examination. The seventh grade pupils stood the state examination, and all hope to pass.

Miss Helms and Miss Davidson will leave Monday for school at Troy. We wish them success.

The Hill's Mixture is a liquid poison, composed of calcium arsenate, molasses, water and secret ingredients which form a combination that we are convinced, from results obtained, attracts the boll weevil.

You can put Hill's Mixture on in the daytime, without machinery, with unimpaired labor. One colored boy or girl can cover six acres a day. A rain of under one-half inch has little effect on it, and it costs from one-half to one-fifth of the dusting method.

RAIN FAILS TO HALT BIG TIME IN ELBA AS EDUCATIONAL RALLY IS SUCCESS.

strong board of education back of him, made up of C. O. Helms, president; C. W. Carmichael, vice-president; J. L. Foley, J. C. Donaldson and Jack T. Taylor.

Deserves Carnegie Pension.

The writer was glad to find that the principal of the Elba public schools was B. H. Boyd, whom he had known in Bourbon County at Louisville. He has been in the schoolroom 50 years, not all that time as teacher, but as pupil and teacher. He is only 57 and yet he has been teaching 38 years and keeps abreast with the modern methods, while having the advantage of being able to cling to the old and tried ones. He is the kind of a schoolmaster who deserves a Carnegie pension and should get one.

There are 75 white schools in Coffee County, about 160 white teachers and around 6,500 white pupils. There are two accredited high schools, the one here and the one at Enterprise. There are also three junior high schools, the ones at New Brockton, Kinston and Dariusville. Coffee county is waking up rapidly along educational lines, for the spirit of the teachers, trustees, board of education and county superintendent is fine and aggressive.

Saturday the writer remained over to fish, but the rains made the river rise and muddied the waters. He had the pleasure of preaching Sunday morning at the Baptist Church. The house of worship is modern, the congregation active and the pastor greatly beloved. The pasteurism is attractive and comfortable. In front of it stand two holly trees and one is a thing of beauty with its millions of red berries. In the back yard stands a magnificent pecan tree which bore last season several hundred pounds of delicious pecans, and near it a fine specimen of a pear tree in bloom. But here comes the thing the writer wishes to give publicity to. They were set out by Rev. R. M. Hunter, less than a score of years ago during his pastorate. He never remained long enough to reap the benefits of his plantings, but others have blessed him for his work and thoughtfulness.

Here is one place where "jay walking" is no crime. The courthouse square is well sodded in grass but it is streaked with paths in every direction for these doing business on the square have found the shortest way between any two given points. A Virginian who laid out a great estate on the James River near Richmond, never put down any walks for the first few years, saying, "I want to give the family, the servants and the visitors a chance to make natural pathways before making them permanent." The writer rode out with Grover Bowden to the famous dam across the Pea River, which furnishes light for a half dozen or more towns in this section, and was surprised to find it of such magnitude. It has been a great thing for the surrounding territory. Former Gov. Henderson is at the head of it. It is well located and substantially built. It affords fine fishing, as just below the mammoth concrete dam the fish coming upstream give the anglers a great chance for sport.

Blessed Comfort Provided.

Blessed be the town where the merchants and bankers provide benches for the tired to sit upon. The writer spent hours on them watching the never-ending procession of ox teams, mule teams and trucks with logs or lumber on the way to the depot or the local mills. He also studied the various types but was unable to answer the question propounded to him as to whether the "hill billy" was superior to the "wiregrass native" or not, as each one of them have their virtues and their weaknesses. Both, however, represent the independent white type and man who are able to stand on their own bottoms without having to be propped up.

hatchie will have to look well to their laurels as the towns of hunting dogs as without doubt there are more pointers and setters here than the writer has ever seen anywhere in Alabama. It is an off hour when a dozen or more are not sunning themselves on the courthouse grounds. They run along the sidewalks, they are in the stores, they are on the lawns, in the back yards. Now the writer liked to watch them. There was one big pointer and a little dog which played during the three days the writer was in Elba. They seemed to have a regular game which consisted in running through the front door of a shop and out the side and doubling. It was a veritable game of hide and seek. There are also quite a number of good hounds here. The dogs and the fish- ing made a strong pull on your correspondent.

The Dorsey stump puller, skidder and sawmill manufacturer here is proving a great success. There is a small furniture factory in operation in the rear of a store. Rocking chairs, swings and benches are made by hand out of seasoned oak and sold at a small cost. The writer got on to it by accident as he saw a boy out in a vacant lot varnishing a set, and got in conversation with him and was shown through the shop.

Elba has two papers, The Elba Clipper, established June 17, 1897, Renzo C. Bryan, editor and owner; and The People's Tribune, which was entered as second-class matter May 11, 1922, M. N. Morrow, business manager, H. A. Durose, editor, and A. M. DuBose, associate editor. The People's Tribune have a job plant and do three-color work. The writer enjoyed loafing within the two sanctums and was shown special courtesies by both of them.

SINGING AT CHESTNUT GROVE.

The people of this community met Sunday afternoon to sing praises to our Redeemer. The chairman of last year not being present, Mr. G. C. Rogers was called on to lead in the organization. He sang three songs, appointed Louie Helms to sing three, and then the organization took place. Mr. Carlos Helms was elected chairman, Miss Elva Tillman, vice-chairman, Miss Oberia Clower, secretary, and Miss Willie Mae Rogers, Naham Grell Tilman to assist in the arranging committee. Recess 10 minutes.

After recess house was called to order by the chairman, who sang one song. Then we had prayer by Mr. J. E. Tillman. A lesson was appointed by three, two songs each: Bobbie Helms, Mrs. Bobbie Helms, organist; Luther Chaney and Miss Vonnice Wood, Miss Elva Tillman, organist. Recess ten minutes.

Another lesson was appointed after recess by four, two songs each: Clyde Rogers and Connie Pearl Dismuke, Coy Rogers and Thelma Clyde Tillman, with Vonnice Wood organist; Elva Tillman, Corner Fuller with Mrs. Hazzie D. Tillman, organist. We were then dismissed by Mr. J. E. Tillman. We cordially invite, not only one but everybody to come every fourth Sunday afternoon. Bring your song book (The Gospel Way) and help us sing. We would be very glad to have you all.

Oberia Clower, Secretary.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Wyrosdick will be pleased to know that they have returned to Elba to make their home.
